

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

The animal did what?

Learning Outcome

Describe problems in social contexts.

Ask your partner:

- What pets have you had in your life?
- What things have they done to surprise you?

Can Do Statements

- I can discuss coincidences, strange events or superstitions.
- I can talk about things that happened or things I did.
- I can talk about things that were happening or things I was doing.

Let's Explore!

Tipsy* elephants?

* When you are "tipsy", you feel a little drunk.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

It was March in South Africa and the marula were ripe. In fact much of it, growing wild, was fermenting in the sun. Thousands of the oval yellow fruit were lying on the forest floor when the elephants discovered them. They spent a long time devouring the sweet pulp and tangy skin.

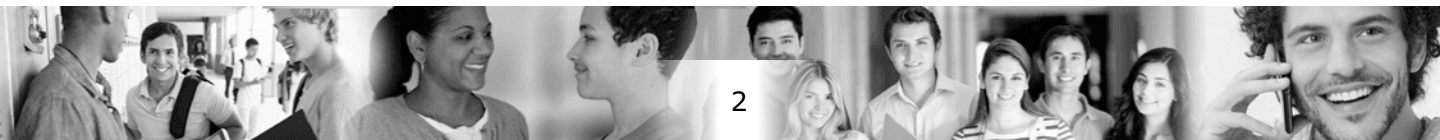

Suddenly, they were weaving, stumbling and falling all over each other. A field guide who was driving through the area stopped. What was wrong? What had those elephants been up to?

He took pictures of the calves and adults that were lying in a contented pile. When the wind changed, he caught a whiff of the fermented fruit. It was then that he realized that the elephants were tipsy. He had to laugh!

Unfortunately, sometimes drunk elephants get angry. In the village of Dumurkota in India, a small herd of elephants wandered in at night and drank more than 100 gallons of homemade mahua alcohol. When they were done they started pushing their way into homes.

They were looking for more of the good stuff. Many of the villagers were sleeping when they heard the intoxicated animals crashing through their walls. Then, someone was shouting a general alarm and people were up and running.

They were still waiting for the elephants to move away from their flattened dwellings a few hours later when the sun came up. As a precaution, the citizens of Dumurkota now distill and store their mahua alcohol some distance from their homes!

Let's Practice!

What did the elephants do?

Instructions: Complete the sentences below by choosing from the options you are given.

Word Bank

- the sun came up
- caught
- heard the intoxicated animals
- were still waiting
- devouring the sweet pulp
- wandered in
- changed.

- 1) They spent a long time _____ and tangy skin.
- 2) A small herd of elephants _____ at night.
- 3) When the wind _____, he _____ a whiff of the fermented fruit.
- 4) The villagers were sleeping when they _____ crashing through their walls.
- 5) They _____ for the elephants to move away a few hours later when _____.

Let's Practice!

What were the elephants doing?

Instructions: Read the sentences below and circle the incorrect word.

- 1) In fact much of it, growing wild, was fermented in the sun.
- 2) Suddenly they was weaved , stumbling and falling all over each other.
- 3) A field guide who were driven through the area stopped.
- 4) He took pictures of the calves and adults that was lied in a contented pile.
- 5) They were sill waits for the elephants to move away from their flattened dwellings a few hours later when the sun came up.

Extension Activity

Recount a funny story about an animal.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Talk about your funny personal experience with an animal, make one up, or look one up online or at the library.
- Write down what happened in point form in logical order.
- Now, write up the incident using the Simple Past and Past Continuous tenses.
- Read your account of the story to a partner.

Self-Assessment

Yes No

I write about a funny experience with an animal.

☐ ☐

I use the Simple Past tense and the Past Continuous tense to recount the story.

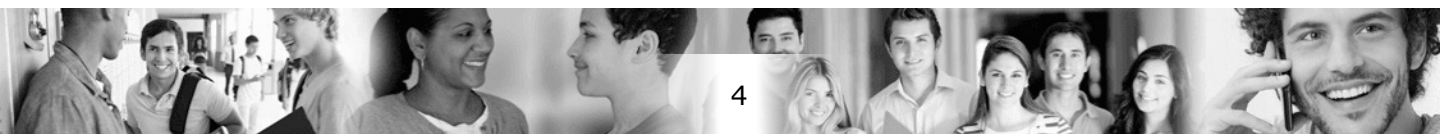

☐ ☐

I share my funny story about an animal with a partner.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- marula (noun): typical fruits from South Africa
e.g. It was March in South Africa and the marula were ripe.
- ripe (adjective): fully mature and ready to eat
e.g. It was March in South Africa and the marula were ripe.
- to ferment (verb): to go through a chemical change that results in the production of alcohol e.g. The marula were fermenting in the sun.
- pulp (noun): the soft, juicy part of a fruit
e.g. The elephants spent a long time devouring the sweet pulp and tangy skin.
- to devour (verb): to quickly eat in a way that shows that you are very hungry
e.g. The elephants spent a long time devouring the sweet pulp and tangy skin.
- tangy (adjective): a strong taste
e.g. The elephants spent a long time devouring the sweet pulp and tangy skin.
- to weave (verb): to move from side to side while going forward; not able to walk in a straight line
e.g. Suddenly the drunk elephants were weaving, stumbling and falling all over each other.
- to stumble (verb): to hit your foot on something when you are walking
e.g. Suddenly the drunk elephants were weaving, stumbling and falling all over each other.
- to catch a whiff of (expression): to sense the smell or odor of something e.g. He caught a whiff of the fermented fruit.
- intoxicated (adjective): affected by alcohol or drugs
e.g. The villagers were sleeping when they heard the intoxicated animals crashing through their walls.

Learning Points

Simple Past Tense

You use the Simple Past tense to talk about actions that were completed in the past.

You use both regular and irregular past tense verbs.

Regular verbs end in -ed, while irregular ones do not. Some follow patterns, others do not.

Verb	Example
be - was/were	It was March in South Africa and the marula were ripe. wander - wandered drink - drank	A small herd of elephants wandered in at night and drank more than 100 gallons of homemade mahua alcohol.
spend - spent	They spent a long time devouring the sweet pulp and tangy skin.

Learning Points

Past Continuous (reactions/behaviors)

You use the Past Continuous to talk about events or an action that was happening at a time in the past.

For Past Continuous, we add was/were + verb "ing".
Some verbs need a change to the last letter to add "ing".

Verb	Example
grow - was/were growing ferment - was/were fermenting	In fact much of it, growing wild, was fermenting in the sun.
weave - was/were weaving fall - was/were falling	Suddenly they were weaving, stumbling and falling all over each other.
lie - was/were lying	He took pictures of the calves and adults that were lying in a contented pile.

Often you use the Simple Past tense and the Past Continuous tense in sentences together. The long action (Past Continuous) is interrupted by a short action (Simple Past).

Examples:

- When they were done they started pushing their way into homes.
- A field guide who was driving through the area stopped.
- Thousands of the oval yellow fruit were lying on the forest floor when the elephants discovered them.
- Many of the villagers were sleeping when they heard the intoxicated animals crashing through their walls.
- They were still waiting for the elephants to move away from their flattened dwellings a few hours later when the sun came up.

