

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

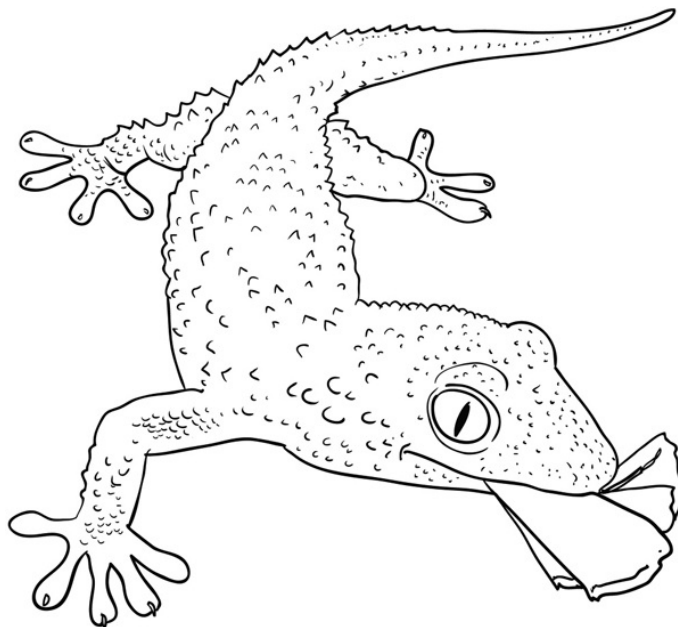

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

Spiders and lizards and snakes! Oh my!

Learning Outcome

Relate information about problems.

Ask your partner:

- Are you afraid of insects or reptiles? Why or why not?
- What types of insects or reptiles are dangerous to humans?

Can Do Statements

- I can discuss coincidences, strange events or superstitions.
- I can write about things that have happened, or things that have been happening.
- I can talk about my attitudes toward an action.

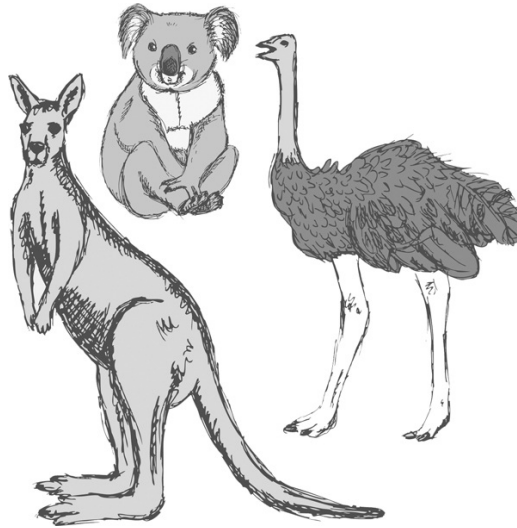

Let's Explore!

I lived in a tiny miner's cottage in Australia!

* A "cottage" is a small house often on a lake or near a beach.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

I have always considered living in a city best for me. I've lived in several large ones and loved it. When my firm proposed sending me to Australia for a while, I jumped at the chance. I expected to find life to be pretty much the same. It is and it isn't.

I have been constantly shocked, surprised and sometimes delighted by the animals here. I've met a few of the locals in or near my tiny miner's cottage. I'd happened to see one or two in picture books before, but most of them are new to me. When I remembered to wheel the recycling bin back into the yard one night, a 12 inch black and white lizard was hiding under it. The neighbors have been teasing me about the shriek I let out ever since.

There have been other guests. The geckos have been choosing to sneak in to keep warm on cold nights. They're cute enough when you expect them - less so when you're not. Silver dollar sized spiders have greeted me as I open the medicine cabinet in the morning. Others have been lurking under the toilet seat. I have been gently lifting it with a wooden spoon before I sit since the first sighting. They disappear quickly, but where to, I keep asking myself!

There's been a warning in the paper about the venomous cyclopean snake that lurks in the tall grass near the beach at this time of year. Needless to say, I've been sticking to the sand and walkways.

Let's Practice!

Oh my! Lizards!

Instructions: Select all the words that are misspelled in each sentence. Write them correctly above each one.

1. A 12 inch black and white lizord was hiding under it.

2. The neighbors have been teasing me about the shrek I let out ever since.

3. The gickos have been choosing to sneak in to keep warm on cold nights.

4. Others have been larking under the toilet seat.

5. There's been a warning in the paper aboyut the vinomous cyclopean snake.

Let's Practice!

Living with geckos! Yikes ...

Instructions: Complete the sentences below by choosing from the options that you are given.

Words

- have met
- have been
- have been sticking to
- have been other
- have been gently lifting
- choosing to

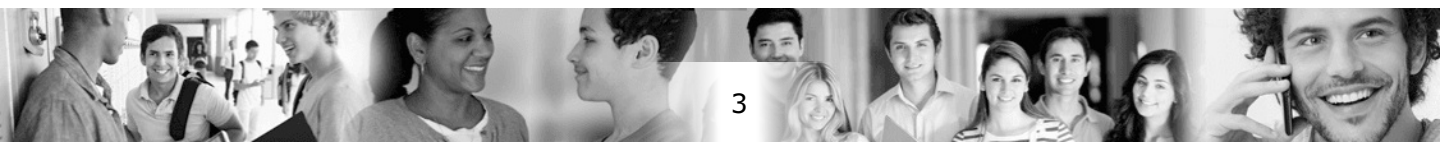

1) I _____ the toilet seat with a wooden spoon before I sit since the first sighting.

2) The geckos _____sneak in to keep warm on cold nights.

3) Needless to say I _____the sand and walkways.

4) I _____a few of the locals in or near my tiny miner's cottage.

5) There_____ guests.

Extension Activity

Write a dialogue between two people.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Two people are having a conversation about animals, insects or reptiles they have encountered in your country.
- Talk about things that have happened, or things that have been happening.
- Talk about your attitudes toward an action.
- Read your dialogue aloud with a partner.

Self-Assessment

Yes No

I write a dialogue about animals, insects or reptiles.

☐ ☐

I use the Present Perfect tense and the Present Perfect Continuous tense.

☐ ☐

I use verb plus gerund and verb plus infinitive.

☐ ☐

I share my dialogue with a partner and we read it aloud together.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- to jump at the chance (expression): to seize the opportunity to do something e.g. When my firm proposed sending me to Australia for a while, I jumped at the chance.
- miner (noun): a person who works in a mine
e.g. I've met a few of the locals in or near my tiny miner's cottage.
- to tease (verb): to irritate or bother
e.g. They have been teasing me.
- lizard (noun): a reptile with scales
e.g. A 12 inch black and white lizard was hiding under it.
- to lurk (verb): to lie in wait or hide
e.g. Other spiders have been lurking under the toilet seat.
- gecko (noun): any of numerous small, mostly nocturnal tropical lizards
e.g. The geckos have been choosing to sneak in to keep warm on cold nights.
- shriek (noun): a loud, sharp, shrill cry e.g. The neighbors have been teasing me about the shriek I let out ever since.
- venomous (adjective): having a gland with poison in it e.g. The venomous cyclopean snake lurks in the tall grass near the beach at this time of year.

Learning Points

Present Perfect Continuous vs. Present Perfect

You use the Present Perfect tense to talk about a past action or an action that began in the past that is connected to the present in some way.

You can use the Present Perfect tense to talk about experiences.

When you use the Present Perfect tense, you think about the past and present together. There is some connection between what happened in the past and now.

To emphasize the result of the action, use the simple form.

- Has anyone called the police?

You use Present Perfect Continuous tense to describe:

- a single activity that lasts a long time
- an action that is repeated over a long period of time

These continue up to the present. You can use the Present Perfect Continuous tense when a long activity has just stopped.

To emphasize the action, use the continuous form.

- What have the other people in the cafe been doing?

Sentence	Meaning
There have been other guests.	before now there were some
The geckos have been choosing to sneak in to keep warm on cold nights.	they've done this for a while now

Examples:

- Silver dollar sized spiders have greeted me as I open the medicine cabinet in the morning.
- Others have been lurking under the toilet seat. I have been gently lifting it with a wooden spoon before I sit since the first sighting.
- There have been other guests.
- The geckos have been choosing to sneak in to keep warm on cold nights.
- There's been a warning in the paper about the venomous cyclopean snake that lurks in the tall grass near the beach at this time of year.
- Needless to say I've been sticking to the sand and walkways.

Learning Points

Gerunds and Infinitives

A gerund is a verb ending with -ing (doing).

An infinitive is to + verb (to do).

There are some verbs that can only be followed by a gerund:

propose (doing)
keep (doing)
consider (doing)

Example:

I appreciate having new experiences.

There are some verbs that can only be followed by an infinitive:

expect (to do)
happen (to do)
choose (to do)
stick (to do)

Example:

I expected to find life to be pretty much the same.

Examples:

- I have always considered living in a city best for me.
- When my firm proposed sending me to Australia for a while, I jumped at the chance.
- They disappear quickly, but "where to?", I keep asking myself.
- I'd happened to see one or two in picture books before.
- The geckos have been choosing to sneak in to keep warm.
- I've been sticking to the sand and walkways.

